ERRATUM

The authors have brought to the publisher's attention that the following sentence was published incorrectly as:

To conclude, anesthesiologists and neuroradiologists should be aware of the oculorespiratory reflex during superselective ophthalmic artery catheterization, which manifests as a sudden drop in tidal volume and an increase in lung compliance.

The above sentence should be corrected as:

To conclude, anesthesiologists and neuroradiologists should be aware of the oculorespiratory reflex during superselective ophthalmic artery catheterization, which manifests as a sudden drop in tidal volume and a decrease in lung compliance.

Additionally, the word 'anuscript' should be read as 'manuscript'. The revised sentence in the Author Contributions section reads as:

S.G. and S.C. performed manuscript review and editing.
